

Anina was born and raised in Germany where she graduated with a BA in Tourism and Travel Management from University of Applied Sciences Worms. Traveling all over Europe with her family growing up, wanderlust was instilled at a very young age and exploring the world is one of Anina's greatest passions. In 2011, she moved to Los Angeles, California began in travel working for New World Travel where she supervised the Tour Series Operations Department. Five years later, Anina accepted a role with YMT Vacations as a Product Manager where she managed the operations of trips in North America, Europe and Asia. In 2018, she joined Destination America, a part of The Travel Corporation as a Contracting Manager and Developer for Canada. Growing within the company, Anina now holds the position of Director of Travel Experiences Development overseeing the development of new itineraries and experiences for North, Central & South America for various travel brands including Trafalgar and Insight Vacations. Her greatest passion is to connect travelers to the destination and to "Make Travel Matter".